Security Measures for Governmental Buildings

- Assess the level of risk: Before developing a security plan, it's essential to assess both the types and levels of risks your entity faces in securing public buildings.
- Develop a security plan: Based on the risk assessment, develop a comprehensive security plan that includes access control, surveillance, and emergency response protocols.
- Training staff: Employees should be trained to identify potential security threats and respond appropriately.
- Communicate with the public: Clear communication can help reduce the likelihood of confrontations that could escalate to security concerns.
- Collaborate with law enforcement:
Collaboration with law enforcement agencies can help ensure a coordinated response in the event of an incident.
